

WASHINGTON COUNTY HISTORY & LANDMARKS FOUNDATION

Washington County History and Landmarks is a private, non-profit educational organization dedicated to the preservation of buildings, sites and structures deemed representative of the cultural, architectural and historic heritage of Washington County.

Published with funding from Washington County Tourism Promotion Agency

Washington County History & Landmarks Foundation and its Center for Historic Preservation are located in the 1806 John White House at the Washington County Fairgrounds.

The Center houses the Foundation offices, architectural records and photos, as well as the Charlotte Lane Memorial Library; and holds permanent and revolving exhibits of historic significance.

The Foundation, founded in 1971, and incorporated in 1973, is an educational non-profit to promote the preservation of historic structures and related history.

It has been instrumental in locating, identifying and listing properties for its own landmark certification program as well as listing individual structures and districts on the National Register of Historic Places.

Since its inception, the Foundation has been successful in helping many historic home owners in the restoration of their properties. Advice and referral are only part of our mission.

In the 1970s, at the urging of preservationists, our organization and its members worked diligently and eagerly to conduct a survey of early architecture found in our county. As a result of that compilation of information was born a 1976 Bicentennial publication, Preserving Our Past: Landmark Architecture of Washington County, Pennsylvania.
